Staff invited to planning forum

All Cal Poly support staff employees are invited to an open forum on university strategic planning to be held Wednesday, Feb. 19, in UU 220, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The forum is being held by the Ad Hoc Staff Task Force. Before opening the session to comments and questions, Task Force members will make brief presentations on the comments they are drafting in response to the current working draft of the Strategic Planning Document.

Results of last month's Support Staff Survey also will be discussed. More than 560 staff members responded to the survey.

Consistent with workload, supervisors are encouraged to make every possible effort to allow interested staff employees to attend.

Staff members who would like more information about the forum should contact their division representative or one of the panel's co-chairs, Eileen Anderson (ext. 2171) or Ellen Stier (5525).

Academic advising program scheduled

START '92, Cal Poly's new student academic advising program targeting educational equity students who plan to enter in fall 1992, has been scheduled for late June and July. The involvement of campus faculty and staff members is welcome. The program has been scheduled for:

June 29-30...Agriculture & Science and Mathematics
July 6-7...Business

July 9-10...Liberal Arts & Professional Studies

July 13-14...Engineering I (AERO, CE, ENVE, ET, IE, MATE, ME)

July 16-17...Architecture and Environmental Design

July 20-21...Engineering II (CPE, CSC, EE, EL, ESCI)

Susan Somppi, Student Academic Services, ext. 2301, has been named coordinator of START '92. Steering committee members include: Maria Arvizu, Outreach Services, ext. 2792, for parent program; Polly Harrigan, Housing, ext. 5600, for housing and registration; Jane Johnson, Career Services, ext. 2501, for student activities; and Marlene Scherer, Student Academic Services, ext. 2301, for advising.

For more information, call Somppi or a committee member.

Fulbright professor teaching at Cal Poly

Visiting Fulbright professor Uthai Dulyakasem from Silpakorn University in Thailand is teaching in the Social Sciences Department this quarter.

Most recently a vice president of Silpakorn University in Bangkok, Uthai is also a professor of sociology and education.

Uthai has worked for the World Bank in Thailand, Malaysia, Cambodia, and Laos to establish rural education programs for economic development. He is on the Prime Minister's National Education Planning Commission.

He received a Ph.D. in sociology and education at Stanford University in 1981 and did graduate work at Leeds University in England.

Women's workshop set for March 16

CareerTrack seminars psychologist and consultant Bobbe Sommer will present a workshop, "Management and Leadership Skills for Women," Monday, March 16, from 9 am to 4 pm.

The program will be in the Student Cafeteria, which adjoins Vista Grande Restaurant.

Career Power participants have been given priority enrollment in the workshop; however, a limited number of spaces are still available. Employees interested in attending should complete the registration form below and mail it to Joan Lund, Personnel, by Feb. 21. Registration will be on a first-come basis.

A letter confirming enrollment will be sent to participants by March 6.

I wish to attend the CareerTrack seminar "Management and Leadership Skills for Women" on March 16.

Multi-media 'Oedipus' to play Feb. 20-22

How do you make a 2000-year-old play relevant to today's audience? Theatergoers will find out when the Theatre and Dance Department presents the classic Greek tragedy "Oedipus" in the Theater Feb. 20-22 at 8 pm.

To appeal to a broad audience, theater instructor and "Oedipus" director Al Schnupp has turned Sophocles' story into a multi-media production.

Schnupp started with the basic story line: When a plague overtakes Thebes, King Oedipus is anxious to discover who or what was the cause. In his search for the truth, Oedipus discovers he is the culprit.

While the major characters enact the play, the chorus will depict situations in "Oedipus" that are current today.

Most of the chorus's speaking parts have been replaced with the poetry and prose of some of this century's most prominent writers. They include Anne Sexton, Larry Kramer, T.S. Eliot, Dylan Thomas, Elie Wiesel, Carl Sandburg, Emily Dickenson and Walt Whitman on such topics as the search for God, the AIDS crisis, the Holocaust, fate, the cycles of life, and freedom of choice. The chorus also uses sign-language, video tape, slides, and body and voice percussion.

Costumes representing both classical and modern times have been designed by Eric Losey and faculty member Philipp Jung. Jung is also in charge of scenic design. Faculty member Howard Gee is the technical director and lighting designer. Theatre technician Jim Chernoff is designing the sound.

Tickets for "Oedipus" are $6.50, or $5.50 with a Cal Poly I.D. For reservations, call the Theatre Ticket Office at ext. 1421. Tickets may be purchased at the Ticket Office in the Theatre Lobby between 10 am and 4 pm Monday through Friday.

Apple computer technology lecture set

Apple Computer will present a lecture from noon to 1 pm on Friday, Feb. 14, in Air Conditioning 110.

The talk is titled "Apple Computer: Vision of the Future - Blueprint for the Decade - An Overview of Apple Technologies and Strategies" and is sponsored by Academic Computing Services.

Topics will include how the Apple/IBM alliance fits into Apple's overall strategy and when the alliance will show results; what hardware platforms the Mac OS will run on; what's in the future for System 7; Apple's RISC strategy and information on the CISC systems; information on Apple's UNIX AU/X; and how the Taligent and Kaleida joint ventures fit into Apple's strategy.

Bring a lunch and learn more about Apple Computer's newest products.

For more information, call ext. 2516.
